Among those offices provided by the Constitution of the State of Ohio within the executive branch of government is that of Governor. The Governor is chosen by the electors of the state to serve for four years and cannot hold office for a period longer than two successive terms of four years each. In the words of the Constitution, "The supreme executive power of this State shall be vested in the Governor." The Constitution goes on to define the Governor's duties and responsibilities:

- To see that the laws are faithfully executed.
- To require information in writing from the officers of the executive department upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices.
- To communicate to the General Assembly by message at every session the condition of the state, and recommend such extraordinary sessions of the General Assembly by proclamation and determine the business to be transacted thereat.
- To convene extraordinary sessions of the General Assembly by proclamation and determine the business to be transacted thereat.
- To adjourn the General Assembly in case of disagreement between the two houses with respect to the time of adjournment.
- To act as commander-in-chief of the military and naval forces of the state.
- To grant reprieves, commutations and pardons except in cases of treason and impeachment.

The statutes of the State of Ohio have established 20 departments of government within the executive branch, the administrative heads of which are appointed by the Governor with advice and consent of the Senate. These department heads, who are responsible to the Governor and serve at his pleasure, include:

- The Adjutant General

The Superintendent of Public Instruction, the administrative head of another major department within the executive branch, is appointed and serves at the pleasure of the State Board of Education.

The appointive powers of the Governor are extensive, including not only the heads of the 20 departments listed previously, but also the Adjutant General, Chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, Director of State Lottery Commission, and members of most of the boards and commissions provided by statute, and some division heads within departments as well. In some instances the advice and consent of the Senate is required.

Acting under the United States Constitution's federal statutes, and the Uniform Criminal Extradition Act, the Governor issues and receives requisition for the interstate rendition of fugitives from justice. Action of the Governor in denying the requisition for the interstate rendition of a fugitive is not reviewable by the courts.

The Attorney General's duties fall into three broad functions. First, the Attorney General is the lawyer for the State of Ohio and its departments, boards and agencies. The office represents the legal interests of the state, provides legal advice when requested by its clients, engages in litigation on behalf of the state and defends the state when it is sued. The attorney general is given power to collect moneys due the state and its agencies or may secure a judgment and issue an execution for its collection. A state officer or employee certifying a claim to the attorney general for collection must supply all necessary information for the collection of the delinquent charges. The attorney general has further powers to enforce payment as are given to the officers, boards or commissions originally certifying the charges. Second, the office has enforcement authority in areas as empowered by the General Assembly. These areas include consumer protection, charitable solicitation, antitrust actions and organized crime.

Finally, the Attorney General's Office works with local law enforcement agencies at their request and provide criminal justice support services through the Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation, peace officer training through the Ohio Peace Officer Training Commission and task force participation through Ohio Organized Crime Investigations Commission. Occasionally, at the invitation of local prosecutors, attorneys with the Office will serve as special prosecutors in criminal cases.

The Attorney General must prosecute any officer for an offense against the revenue laws of the state that come to his knowledge; such an action may be brought in the Court of Common Pleas of Franklin County, or of any county in which the defendant or one or more defendants reside or can be summoned. Furthermore, if an audit report issued by the Auditor of State sets forth any malfeasance or gross neglect of duty by any public official, for which a criminal penalty is provided, a certified copy must be filed with the prosecuting attorney of the county in which the offense is committed. The prosecuting attorney must institute criminal proceedings against such a public official within 120 days. The Attorney General may bring an action for the recovery of public money or property in any case in which an officer who has received an audit report from the Auditor of State, showing that public money has been illegally expended or is uncollected or unaccounted for, fails to bring such an action within 120 days after receiving the report.

The Office of Attorney General is comprised of some 1,250 employees, approximately 340 of whom are attorneys. In addition to the main facilities in Columbus, there are offices in Cincinnati, Toledo and Cleveland. The Attorney General's office also includes the Ohio Peace Officers Training Academy and BCI in London, the Ohio Organized Crime Investigations Commission in Grove City, and BCI laboratories in Richfield and Bowling Green. Often, attorneys are located at client offices, such as public universities.

At any given moment, more than 35,000 active legal cases are being handled by the people in the office, on issues ranging from consumer fraud and criminal justice to environmental enforcement and civil rights. The attorney general is charged with the duty of maintaining law and order within the state. In addition to these duties as the chief law officer for the state, there are a great many statutory provisions which specifically charge the attorney general with the enforcement of particular statutes.

The current Attorney General, Marc Dann is the 47th Attorney General of Ohio. The Office of the Attorney General is managed through seven divisions:

- Criminal Justice
- Public Protection
- The First Assistant Attorney General
- Chief Counsel
- State Solicitor
- Administration
- Communication

The Criminal Justice Division
The Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation (BCI) provides scientific and investigative assistance to local law enforcement agencies throughout Ohio. The DNA and crime laboratories provide services in the areas of forensics, drugs, trace evidence, and serological analysis; firearm, fingerprint, document and toolmark examination; and has a complete photographic laboratory. BCI may assist in the investigation of all criminal violations and specializes in cases involving organized crime, narcotics, racketeering, public corruption, and computer and financial fraud. BCI maintains computerized criminal records submitted by law enforcement agencies through the Automated Fingerprint Identification System (AFIS). Millions of sets of fingerprints and DNA samples are classified and on file.

The Child and Elder Protection Section helps to protect Ohio's most vulnerable. Combining resources of the Corrections Litigation and Crime Victims sections, experienced criminal prosecutors and investigators assist local prosecutors in child support, physical and sexual abuse cases. Internet and computer crime investigations, and elder abuse cases. The section's areas include cyberexploitation, nonsupport and juvenile gangs. The cyberexploitation area focuses on computer-related crimes involving child solicitation and pornography. The non-support area provides local prosecutors with support on fugitives and cold cases, while the juvenile gang and threat group area gathers intelligence and shares information with local law enforcement on street gangs, biker gangs, and hate groups. The section includes the Sex Offender Registration and Notification program, Child Abuse Prosecution, the Expert Witness Fund, Computer Crimes Task Force, the Gang Unit Access Research Database and the Ohio Criminal Threat and Anti-Gang Operational Network, the Ohio Missing Children's Clearinghouse, threat group databases at BCI, and the bureau's Computer Crime Intelligence and Child Exploitation Investigations programs.

The Capital Crimes Section defends death penalty appeals. This team of career prosecutors assists county prosecutors with every phase of death penalty prosecutions, from the indictment and trial through every stage of appeal. The section also compiles a "brief bank" of sample responses to the most common death penalty appeal petitions.
The Corrections Litigation Section defends all lawsuits brought against state employees and officials by inmates. As a result of the aggressive work of this team of attorneys, approximately 95 percent of lawsuits brought by inmates are dismissed as meritless. The section provides representation to the Department of Rehabilitation and Correction, the Department of Youth Services, the Adult Parole Authority, the State Highway Patrol, the Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation, the Peace Officer Training Academy and Commission, and the Ohio Organized Crime Investigations Commission.

The Crime Victims Services Section administers the Ohio Crime Victims Compensation Fund, which was created to help innocent victims of violent crime recover unreimbursed economic losses suffered as a result of the crime. This section also administers the Sexual Assault Forensic Exam (SAFE) Program, reimbursing medical facilities up to $500 for each rape kit completed in compliance with established state protocol and for the purpose of gathering evidence for possible prosecution. The section maintains the Ohio Missing Children's Clearinghouse, which coordinates and improves the availability of information on missing children. The section also maintains the Victim Information and Notification Everyday (VINE) Program, which is an automated telephone system that makes information relating to an offender's custody status and upcoming court events available to victims and concerned citizens 24-hours-a-day, seven-days-a-week.

The Health Care Fraud Section is composed of two units: the Medicaid Fraud Control Unit and the Workers' Compensation Fraud Unit. The Medicaid Fraud Control Unit is responsible for the investigation and prosecution of health care providers accused of defrauding the state's Medicaid program. In addition, this unit enforces Ohio's Patient Abuse and Neglect Law, which protects the mentally and physically disabled and the elderly from exploitation and abuse in Ohio's long-term care facilities. The Workers' Compensation Fraud Unit is responsible for prosecuting claimants and health care providers who defraud the Ohio Workers' Compensation Program.

The Ohio Organized Crime Investigations Commission (OOCIC) authorizes the formation of organized crime task forces to investigate and prosecute organized criminal activity. OOCIC provides logistic and technical assistance. OOCIC's attorneys provide legal assistance to the task forces in their prosecution of narcotics, money laundering, racketeering and other cases. OOCIC maintains an inventory of sophisticated surveillance and communications equipment that is available to assist local law enforcement.

The Peace Officer Training Academy trains approximately 10,000 officers each year. It is administered by the Attorney General through the Ohio Peace Officer Training Commission, which represents Ohio's law enforcement community. The commission establishes uniform courses of training for law enforcement officers and private security throughout Ohio, and regulates the 558-hour basic training curriculum for prospective officers. This curriculum consists of more than 100 subjects ranging from criminal investigation to the use of firearms. The academy also provides a scenario house and state-of-the-art driving track for enhanced law enforcement training.

The Public Protection Division
The Consumer Protection Section enforces numerous Ohio laws that protect consumers and businesses. Attorneys and investigators prepare and initiate litigation against nonconforming suppliers when violations of the consumer protection laws cannot be settled through nonlegal channels.

The Environmental Enforcement Section enforces the civil and criminal state environmental protection laws through its work with the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency, the Department of Natural Resources, and the State Fire Marshal. Under the direction of the Attorney General, the section works to ensure that Ohio's environmental protection laws are being enforced. The section actively works with the business and agricultural communities to assist them in properly achieving compliance.

The Charitable Law Section enforces the Ohio Charitable Solicitations Act, regulates all charitable trusts within Ohio, maintains financial records on nearly 20,000 charities in Ohio, and licenses charitable bingo games. The section conducts statewide investigations, in cooperation with law enforcement officials, and represents the Attorney General in all civil litigation and administrative proceedings arising under the state laws which regulate charitable organizations.

The Civil Rights Section serves as legal counsel for the Ohio Civil Rights Commission. Attorneys in this section have responsibilities ranging from conducting settlement negotiations to presenting oral arguments before the Ohio Supreme Court. The commission is charged with resolving the complaints of illegal discrimination based on race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age, or ancestry.

The Public Utilities Section serves as legal advisor to the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio in a variety of telephone, electricity, natural gas, transportation, and water matters. The section represents the staff of the commission in administrative proceedings, and represents the commission itself in direct appeals to the Ohio Supreme Court, and before other state and federal courts and administrative agencies. The section, in cooperation with the Environmental Enforcement Section, also represents the Ohio Power Siting Board.

The Business Counsel Section specializes in the preparation and review of contracts, leases, and other real property transactions. Additionally, this section reviews all contracts executed on behalf of Attorney General's Office. This section assists with the issuing of state bonds and assists with the state of Ohio's annual audit.

The First Assistant Attorney General
The Constitutional Offices Section acts as legal counsel for the Governor, Secretary of State, State Treasurer, Auditor of State, Inspector General, the Supreme Court of Ohio, the Ohio General Assembly, Department of Administrative Services, the Office of Budget and Management, and Attorney General in all legal matters. The cases handled in this section range from contract disputes to constitutional challenges of state law.

The Executive Agencies Section provides legal advice and conducts litigation on behalf of more than 60 state departments and agencies, including the departments of Agriculture, Commerce, and Development, as well as the Department of Administrative Services, the Liquor Control Commission, the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, and the Adjutant General.

The Health and Human Services Section specializes in health law by serving as general and trial counsel for more than 30 state departments and regulatory boards. This section handles defense challenges in the areas of provider reimbursement and health care delivery programs, enforcement litigation against individual and institutional providers for substandard care through Ohio's Patient Abuse and Neglect Law, and litigation relating to professional licensure for healthcare providers.

The Policy and Legislative Affairs Section acts as the liaison between the Attorney General and all statewide office holders, state agencies, boards, and commissions. Additionally, this section formulates policy, monitors legislative initiatives, and advises the Attorney General. This section is also responsible for researching and monitoring federal policy and legislative initiatives and its potential impact on the state.

The Special Counsel Section facilitates the appointment of special counsel to serve the legal needs of Ohio's state agencies, retirement systems, and public institutions of higher education. Special counsel are assigned to provide legal services ranging from general matters to highly specialized areas, such as intellectual property, real estate, collections and litigation.

The Chief Counsel
The Court of Claims Section represents all branches of state government — elected officials, agencies, boards and commissions, universities — in lawsuits brought against the state for money damages, including contract, personal injury, premises liability, medical malpractice, and employment actions.

The Education Section represents the state's education clients, handling all legal matters for Ohio's public institutions of higher education and for the state Board of Education, Ohio Board of Regents, state Board of Proprietary School Registration, the Ohio Student Aid Commission, the Ohio Tuition Trust Authority, the Ohio School Facilities Commission, and School Net, among other education clients.

The Employment Law Section defends state agencies and officials in all employment matters before federal and state courts, the Personnel Board of Review, Ohio Civil Rights Commission, and the State Employment Relations Board. The section handles litigation related to race, gender, national origin, age, disability, political discrimination, and unfair labor practice charges under federal and state law.

The Taxation Section represents the Ohio Department of Taxation in all litigation involving the enforcement, administration, and defense of the tax laws of Ohio. A considerable portion of the legal work of the section consists of representing the Department of Taxation in appeals to the Ohio Board of Tax Appeals and the Ohio Supreme Court.

The Transportation Section serves as legal counsel to the Ohio Department of Transportation, with a substantial portion of the litigation involving trials pertaining to the acquisition of property by eminent domain. This section also represents the department before various administrative boards, courts of appeal, federal district courts, and the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals. This section also represents the Ohio Rail Development Commission and the Ohio Arts Council, advising both on public contracting, governmental functions, and activities.

The Workers' Compensation Section provides legal counsel and representation to the administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Workers' Compensation and to the Industrial Commission of Ohio. The majority of the section's cases involves jury trials regarding workers' compensation claims and involves the extensive use of medical expert witnesses. At the administrative level, the section prosecutes decertification proceedings against medical providers and managed care organizations in the bureau's Health Partnership Program.

State Solicitor
The Antitrust Section ensures competition in the marketplace by enforcing both state and federal antitrust laws. These laws prohibit collusive business practices, such as price fixing and market allocation agreements. Attorneys investigate potential violations and initiate litigation seeking compensation for consumers and the state. The section also provides "business reviews" at the request of companies considering mergers, acquisitions, and other types of proposed business arrangements.

The Appeals Section represents clients of the Attorney General before the Ohio Supreme Court, the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals, and the United States Supreme Court. This section also has an active Amicus practice in which it seeks to support litigants throughout the country in the U.S. Supreme Court on issues of importance to Ohio.

The Opinions Section researches, writes, and prepares for publication all formal opinions of the Attorney General. Opinion requests may be submitted to this section by the Attorney General's statutory clients, the prosecuting attorneys of Ohio's 88 counties, the law directors of townships that have adopted the limited self-government form of township government, and either house of the General Assembly, by way of resolution.

Administration
The Administration Division ensures the office operates in an efficient manner providing service to Ohioans through the sections of: Finance, General Services, Human Resources, Information Technology, and Collections Enforcement.

The Finance Section is responsible for all accounts receivable, accounts payable, and grant management functions for the Attorney General's Office. The Finance Section also prepares the annual budget, and enforces proper accountability within the section budgets.

The General Services Section is responsible for purchasing, support, and facility management for the Attorney General's Office. Responsibilities also include the management of the office's telecommunications, fleet, copy centers, record retention, and mail services.

The Human Resources Section is responsible for the recruitment, staffing, continual training, and benefits administration for all office employees.

The Information Technology Section is responsible for implementing current administration technology to provide a secure environment capable of supporting the applications and tools needed by the law enforcement community, office clients, and the Attorney General's Office staff.

The Collections Enforcement Section, which is completely self-funded and receives no general revenue funding, collects delinquent debts owed Ohio from agencies, institutions, universities and other government entities for taxes, fines, penalties, service fees, loans, and any other debt due. Additionally, Collections Enforcement's bankruptcy attorneys pursue state claims in bankruptcy cases nationwide.

Communications

The Communications Division is responsible for efficiently and effectively responding to the thousands of inquiries for information and public records requests from citizens of Ohio and around the country on the actions of the Ohio Attorney General's Office. Through constituent affairs, public affairs, graphics, media relations, and web site content, information is disseminated to ensure the public is kept informed and has access to the Office of the Attorney General.

The Auditor of State is a constitutional officer responsible for auditing all public offices in Ohio including cities and villages, schools and universities, counties and townships, as well as the many departments, agencies and commissions of state government. The Office audits over 3,000 entities and performs more than 3,000 audits each year.

These duties are in addition to such administrative activities as processing payments requested by state agencies for state payroll, income tax refunds, public assistance payments and payments to vendors providing goods and services to the state. In Fiscal Year 2004, the Auditor of State's Office issued 6.8 million paper warrants totaling $11.4 billion and processed 3.1 million electronic funds transfers (EFT) totaling $34.3 billion.

The Auditor of State oversees approximately 700 auditors who perform financial audits of all public entities as required by Ohio Revised Code Chapter 117. Generally, these audits, which occur at least once every two years, entail a review of the methods, accuracy, and legality of accounts, financial reports, records and files of public entities in addition to a review to ascertain compliance with the laws, rules ordinances and orders pertaining to the office.

The offices of the Auditor of State are distributed into nine regions (eight geographic regions and one responsible for state audits). Each regional office is supervised by a chief auditor. The regional organization allows the Auditor's office to provide better services to clients and helps minimize travel costs, and therefore audit costs, charged to clients.

The Local Government Services Division of the Auditor of State's office serves as a counseling and fiscal advisory group to all government agencies and subdivisions. Local Government Services provides many services, including interpretation of any financial aspect of public programs under local jurisdiction, finance management training to newly elected officials and assistance in the development of efficient, compatible accounting systems for local government units.

The Office of Auditor of State traces its origins to the time of the Northwest Territory, before Ohio was a state. The responsibilities encompassed within the office have continually increased from its inception in 1797, when the legislature of the territory established the position of auditor of public accounts, to assure the "legality and propriety" of territorial accounts. The position was continued under the Constitution of 1803, through which the auditor was jointly elected by the legislature for a three-year term. The auditor was made an elective officer, serving a four-year term by vote of the people, under the current Ohio Constitution.

By law, the Auditor of State serves on a number of boards and commissions, such as the State Board of Deposit, State Apportionment Board, and the Public Employees Deferred Compensation Board. The auditor is also the president of the Sinking Fund, which administers the constitutional debt of Ohio, and is supervisor of school and ministerial lands, which were given to Ohio by Congress many years ago.

The Office of the Secretary of State, as provided in the original Ohio Constitution of 1802, was an appointive office. It has been an elective office since the adoption of the Ohio Constitution of 1851.

The Secretary of State serves as Ohio's chief elections officer and administrator of public records. Specifically, the Secretary of State's office records, documents and grants corporate charters, articles of incorporation and other corporate identity transactions to entities seeking to do business in Ohio. It also maintains records of secured commercial transactions carried out in the state. The Secretary of State also appoints, trains and advises all members of the 88 county boards of elections, as well as prepares the rules and instructions regarding all elections. The Secretary of State supervises the official activities of the boards and casts the deciding vote, when the members of the bipartisan board of elections are equally divided on a question or motion. The agency also creates and carries out voter registration, participation and civic involvement campaigns throughout the state. In 2001, the Ohio Notary Commission also came under the direction of the secretary.

The Secretary of State is a member of the Apportionment Board, which is responsible for the apportionment of the state for the purpose of electing members of the General Assembly.

The Secretary of State is an ex-officio member of the Sinking Fund Commission and serves as its secretary. The commission is responsible for administering the state's constitutional debt.

The Secretary of State also is a member of the Ohio Public Facilities Commission, which administers the state's bond programs to fund capital improvements for higher education, mental health and parks facilities.

In addition to the above mentioned duties, the Secretary of State also is charged with the safekeeping of all laws and resolutions passed by the General Assembly, countersigning and filing all commissions issued by the governor (except those of notaries public), and publishing the laws enacted by each General Assembly. By law, it also publishes rosters of elected and appointed officials, and elections statistical information.

The Secretary of State's office, through the Information Technology Division, maintains election and corporate public records for Ohio. The division compiles those records and, upon request, makes them available to the public through a Web based FTP site or CD ROM media. Election results, broken down by precinct, may be requested from the Elections division as well.

Business Services Division (877) 767-3453
Ohio law requires all corporations, both profit and nonprofit, to file articles of incorporation in the office of the Secretary of State. Subsequent amendments to the articles, such as changes in the number of authorized shares of stock, must also be filed with the office. Foreign corporations doing business within the state must apply to the Secretary of State for a license. If the license application is in order, the Secretary of State grants the foreign corporation a certificate of authority to transact business in Ohio. Limited liability companies, limited partnerships and limited liability partnerships, whether domestic or foreign, must also register with the Secretary of State.

In addition to granting corporate charters and registrations to companies seeking to conduct business in Ohio, the Business Services Division also approves mergers, consolidations, conversions and dissolutions of those businesses, in addition to registering trademarks, service marks, trade names and fictitious names.

Uniform Commercial Code (614) 466-3623
Ohio Revised Code Chapter 1309 designates the Secretary of State as the central filing office for all secured transactions except where the collateral involved is timber, mineral receivables, or fixtures. The Uniform Commercial Code requires that financing statements be filed with the Secretary of State to perfect a security interest in a debtor's collateral, which was used to obtain a loan. The Uniform Commercial Code provides for the filing of continuation statements, which renew financing statements that generally have a statutory life of five years, assignments and partial releases of collateral, and termination statements.

Elections Division (614) 466-2585
The Secretary of State's Elections Division prepares rules and instructions for conducting elections, prescribes forms for voter registration, petitions and ballots, approves ballot language, prepares the ballot title for all laws or amendments to the Constitution to be submitted to Ohio voters, as well as assists in the investigation of election irregularities, and prepares and provides training for Board of Elections members and staff.

All declarations of candidacy or nominating petitions for statewide office and all statewide initiative and referendum petitions are filed with the Secretary of State. The votes cast for all candidates for elective state office, U.S. Senate, Congress and State Board of Education, as well as the votes on all statewide issues, are canvassed in the Division, which issues the certificates of election.

The division also reports elections statistics and voter registration information.

Campaign Finance Section (614) 466-3111
The Secretary of State's Campaign Finance Division oversees reports relating to the state offices, state political parties and statewide political action committees. Copies of the General Assembly candidate reports are also filed with the division.

www.sos.state.oh.us/sos/vri.aspx

To accomplish the goals of the Institute and office of Secretary of State, the VRI has assembled an Advisory Council consisting of some of the state's most experienced, dedicated and diverse voter advocacy groups and individuals. The Council also includes national representation and Ohio elections administrators. The Council will advise the Institute and office in all aspects of voting in Ohio and will assist in outreach efforts and statewide program initiatives. The VRI will also assess a variety of state initiatives as it relates to voting and publish reports on voting participation in Ohio. Bid Ohio
Eligible banks compete for a portion of state deposits by bidding online. Certificates of deposit (CDs) are purchased based on the highest interest rates offered, giving banks more money to work with locally and the state higher short-term returns.

Center for Public Investment Management
The Treasury provides annual training for local public funds managers in how to safely, ethically and effectively handle resources. Classes are mandated by the state.

Linked Deposits for Agriculture and Small Business
The Treasury partners with eligible local banks to boost economic development by purchasing reduced-rate CDs. Lenders pass along the interest break to qualified farmers and entrepreneurs in the form of lower-interest loans.

State Treasury Asset Reserve of Ohio (STAR Ohio)
STAR Ohio, an AAA-rated fund managed by the Treasury, is an investment pool through which local governments' deposits can earn more by being invested collectively.

Teachers Training Academies
In partnership with the Ohio Department of Education, the Treasury is offering continuing-education courses to educators to prepare them to teach financial literacy, a new requirement of Ohio's Core Curriculum that will take effect in 2010. These classes will begin in summer 2007, allowing schools to implement a personal finance curriculum three years ahead of schedule.

Women and Money
The Treasury works with Community Financial Education, a nonprofit organization, to offer several free education programs for women of all ages and income levels to assist them with financial planning and building a secure future.

The Adjutant General is the administrative head of the state's military forces (the Governor is the commander-in-chief). This department is responsible for administering the organized militia, consisting of the Ohio Army National Guard, Air National Guard, Military Reserve and Naval Militia. The Army National Guard consists of over 10,000 Soldiers and operates 53 armories housing various brigades, companies or detachments, 20 field maintenance shops, and two unit training equipment sites. The Air National Guard has over 5,000 Airmen and operates flying bases at Columbus-Rickenbacker (18 KC-135R), Mansfield-Lahm (8 C-130s), Springfield-Beckley (16 F-16s, including a current mission to train Dutch F-16 pilots) and Toledo Express (18 F-16s) airports, plus a combat communications group, combat communications squadron, two tactical control squadrons, an engineering installation squadron, and a civil engineering squadron.

The militia are state forces, and the Governor is solely empowered to call upon them to aid in executing the laws, suppressing insurrection, repelling invasion, to act in the event of a disaster, or to promote the health, safety and welfare of Ohioans. The Army and Air National Guard are also reserve components of the federal armed services and may be called by the President to active duty under federal control for the war-fighting mission. In either case, the concept is that of citizen soldiers and airmen called to active service in time of need. In their dual capacity as state forces and federal reserves, members of the National Guard are subject to both state and federal laws. The Adjutant General's Department's State General Revenue Fund budget is approximately $13 million each year of this biennium, and will receive over $400 million each year in federal funding.

Pursuant to federal law and regulations, the Adjutant General issues regulations governing the Ohio organized militia, and is the appointing and removal authority for active guard and reserve soldiers and airmen, state employees of the department, and federal technicians.

Reynoldsburg, OH 43068

administration@mail.agri.state.oh.us www.ohioagriculture.gov

The Ohio Department of Agriculture (ODA) was first established on February 27, 1846, and continues its operations today as the second oldest department in Ohio government.

The department serves in the administrative branch of state government responsible for the enforcement of state laws and regulations pertinent to the manufacturing, processing, labeling, advertising, and selling of commodities the farmer uses in crop and livestock production; the production, processing, packing, labeling, and sanitary condition of foods, carbonated and still beverages, drugs, cosmetics, meat, and meat products for public consumption; the control of diseases of livestock, poultry, field crops, and honey bees; regulatory oversight of large livestock and poultry farms; regulatory supervision of grain warehouses and dealers; inspection and organization of county and independent fairs; and custodian of the Primary Weights and Measures Standards in Ohio.

By virtue of the office, the director of the Ohio Department of Agriculture is the state Sealer of Weights and Measures. He or she is also an ex-officio member of the

- Ohio Exposition Commission,
- Ohio Soil and Water Conservation Commission,
- Ohio Agriculture Research and Development Center Board of Control,
- Ohio Sewer and Water Commission,
- Governor's Commission on Interstate Cooperation,
- Ohio Agricultural Financing Commission, and
- Ohio Interagency Pesticide Advisory Council.

The director is empowered to make rules and regulations regarding all aspects of statutory duties concerning agriculture and consumer protection, the conduct of county and independent fairs and departmental procedures. To facilitate administrative procedures, the department's workload is apportioned among the following divisions and programs:

The Division of Administration is devoted to personnel management, fiscal, investigation, legal, legislation, Agriculture Financing Commission, labor relations, and communications for the benefit of all other divisions within the department. The Division of Administration is also responsible for the coordination and supervision of all activities of the department.

The Division of Amusement Ride Safety and Fairs inspects and licenses all amusement rides operated in Ohio, including permanent parks, county and independent fairs, and festivals. The division also licenses and inspects games at the county and independent fairs.

The Division of Animal Industry is primarily concerned with the control of diseases among livestock and poultry. Procedures employed in this field must be sufficiently flexible to cope with the occurrence of established diseases which may become epidemic, and with new diseases which are, or may be, discovered periodically. These procedures must function continuously within the limits of prescribed legal authority. The purpose is to protect a valuable source of food, the producer, and the consumer.

The Consumer Analytical Laboratory provides essential analytical support to nearly all ODA divisions. Additionally, the lab performs similar functions for other agencies, including the Ohio Department of Health, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Chemists, bacteriologists and technicians from the division coordinate and conduct laboratory tests on foods and agricultural commodities regulated by other divisions with ODA. Test results are relayed to the appropriate division for follow up.

The Dairy Division is responsible for ensuring the safety and wholesomeness of all milk products produced in Ohio. The division administers and enforces the Ohio dairy laws contained in Chapter 917 of the Ohio Revised Code.

The Enforcement Division supports the ODA's regulatory divisions through the investigation of incidents of noncompliance. By working closely with ODA field inspectors from each of the other divisions, enforcement officers help bring companies into compliance with their regulatory responsibilities once other avenues have failed. This often includes collecting evidence to be used in a court of law. The division also administers the Auctioneers Program which helps assure auctioneers are licensed and acting in accordance with the law.

The Office of Farmland Preservation helps educate the public about preserving farmland, one of Ohio's most precious resources, and helps farmers and local officials with their farmland protection efforts.

The Division of Food Safety secures compliance with the laws that are designed to safeguard the public against unsanitation, adulteration, false advertising, illegal labeling, and fraud incidental to the preparation, handling, packaging, storage, transportation, refrigeration, spoilage, and other hazards connected with the merchandising of foods, dairy products, beverages, and drugs. It also grades fresh fruits and vegetables to provide a certified guarantee of quality for such commodities. It enforces the laws and regulations that require labels to accurately state the quantity and quality of such commodities in packages.

The Livestock Environmental Permitting Program helps assure that Ohio's large-scale livestock and poultry farms are operating in an environmentally safe manner.

The Division of Markets is responsible for the domestic and international marketing of Ohio agricultural products in order to enhance the quality of lives for rural Ohioans by providing employment opportunities. They work cooperatively with several of Ohio's commodity organizations to conduct their marketing programs and are responsible for public information and communication regarding agricultural issues. The Ohio Grape Industries Program oversees how promotional and research funds for the grape and wine industries are spent, as agreed upon by the Ohio Grape Industries Committee. The state agriculture director serves as chairman of the nine-member committee, whose activities are funded from a portion of the excise tax on the sale of wine in Ohio.

The Division of Meat Inspection is responsible for administering the Ohio Meat Law in such a manner as to conform to the provisions of the Wholesome Meat Act passed by Congress in 1967. The objective of meat inspection programs is to assure that meat and poultry products are wholesome, unadulterated and properly labeled.

The Ohio Rural Development Partnership office, administered in cooperation with ODA, is a statewide organization that brings together citizens, community-based organizations, representatives of the private sector, and federal, state, and local officials to address the needs of rural Ohio communities.

The Division of Plant Industry is charged with the responsibility of enforcing Ohio laws regulating the processing, labeling, analysis, and sale of fertilizers, livestock, and poultry feedstuffs, agricultural liming materials, pesticides, and agricultural and vegetable seed. Included also is the obligation to suppress honey bee diseases and to inspect pests and plant diseases injurious to agricultural, horticultural, ornamental, and forestry crops. The Grain Warehouse Section of this division is devoted to the licensing of grain handlers and the enforcement of regulations regarding the Commodity Handlers law. It also oversees an indemnity fund that reimburses farmers when a licensed elevator insolvency occurs.

The Division of Weights & Measures administers and enforces all laws pertaining to weights and measures. The program is based on the premise that any system of selling commodities of any type is founded on accurate weights and measures in order to protect both the buyer and seller. Departmental weights and measures officials work hand-in-hand with local officials to constantly check and recheck weighing and measuring devices used throughout the state.

Department of Alcohol and Drug Addiction Services

280 N. High St., 12th Flr.
Columbus, OH 43215

(614) 752-8359 Fax: (614) 728-4936

brunton@ada.ohio.gov

The Ohio Department of Alcohol and Drug Addiction Services (ODADAS) was created October 10, 1989, in accordance with Chapter 3793 of the Ohio Revised Code (OCR). The department plans, initiates and coordinates a comprehensive system of alcohol and other drug addiction services designed to prevent abuse and treat Ohio's addicted populations. As one of only eight states in the nation to address the issue of substance abuse at the cabinet level, the department coordinates its services with other state agencies, the criminal justice system, law enforcement, the legislature, local agencies and treatment/prevention professionals throughout the state.

The mission of the Department is a commitment to making alcohol and other drug abuse treatment and prevention services available to those Ohioans in need. ODADAS is the catalyst of commitment and collaboration among state departments, the criminal justice system, ADAMHS/ADAS boards, the courts, community leaders, professional counselors, teachers and families. A commitment from these resources to support the processes of treatment and prevention of substance abuse is essential for success.

ODADAS is a grant-in-aid agency which is required to implement a civil rights plan under state and federal rules and regulations based on Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964; Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973; Age Discrimination Act of 1975; Omnibus Budget Reconcilation Act of 1981 (if applicable); and the Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990.

The mission of the program is to monitor all aspects of the department's operation to ensure that no policy or practice is, or has the effect of discriminating against beneficiaries or other participants on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex (including sexual harassment and sexual orientation), age, religion or disability.

The department has a biennial budget of over $300 million. Sixty-three percent comes from federal grant dollars and thirty-seven percent comes from state funds. The majority of the state funds come from general revenue funds and the balance from liquor profits, fees and driver's license reinstatement fees due to driving while intoxicated.

The department itself does not provide direct services to clients. ODADAS allocates its funding to 50 Alcohol, Drug Addiction and Mental Health Services (ADAMHS) Boards and Alcohol and Drug Addiction Services (ADAS) Boards. The Boards assess alcohol and drug addiction service needs, coordinates services and evaluates the performance for over 1,000 community programs. Local boards work with community agencies to develop plans to provide needed services. Each board submits a community plan as its application for funding. ODADAS reviews the plans and assures compliance with state and federal regulations. The quality and effectiveness of services delivered by local programs are monitored and evaluated. Only those treatment programs certified by the department are eligible to receive ODADAS funds.

The Director's Office Includes a diverse staff of policy development, Legislative services, Legal Counsel, and Communications and Medicaid services. The Office works closely with the Legislature, Governor's Office and general public.

Medicaid coverage of certain alcohol and other drug treatment services is authorized by an Interagency Agreement between the Ohio Department of Job and Family Services (ODJFS) and ODADAS. Ohio's Medicaid program covers the following services: ambulatory detoxification, assessment, case management, crisis intervention, group counseling, individual counseling, intensive outpatient, laboratory urinalysis, and medical somatic and methadone administration when provided to a Medicaid eligible consumer.

The Division of Quality Improvement develops standards established by rule in the Administrative Code to ensure quality and accountability in the provision of alcohol and drug treatment, methadone, driver intervention and prevention program services. The division is responsible for ensuring programs meet the requirements of the rules through an on-site review and develops guidelines and tools for improving the efficiency and effectiveness of the alcohol and drug service delivery system. The division also provides training on clinical issues and ongoing technical assistance on clinical and certification issues. Additionally, the division coordinates the investigation of complaints filed against providers.

The Division of Fiscal Services manages and oversees fiscal operations and represents the department on financial matters before the legislature, Controlling Board, OBM, other state agencies, local boards and service providers.

The Division of Human Resources develops and administers a comprehensive department-wide personnel program, which includes labor relations, personnel, equal employment opportunities and health and safety activities. The division issues payroll, fleet management, lease management and mailing functions.

The Division of Management Information Services (MIS) collects, maintains and reports on data for the department and its programs. MIS operations include: monitoring driver intervention programs, Multi Agency Community Shared Information System (MACSIS) internal information system support, Medicaid payments, conducting the Uniform Facility Data Set survey of all certified and funded programs and coordinating the Department's Long-Range Information Systems Plan.

The Division of Planning, Outcomes and Research is responsible for oversight of department strategic planning activities, needs assessment and outcome initiatives. Oversees the federal SAPT block grant annual submission to the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration in the department's five-year plan, The division develops community plan guidelines (board application for funds) and coordinates the board plan review and approval process. It enforces a variety of regulations that apply to: auctioneers, boilers, bedding and upholstered furniture, cemeteries, check cashing services, construction compliance, credit service organization, elevators, financial institutions, insurance premium finance companies, liquor control, mortgage brokers, pawnbrokers, precious metals dealers, pressure piping, private investigators, real estate, real estate appraisers, second mortgage businesses, securities, security guards, small loan businesses, steam engineers, travel agents, unclaimed funds and underground storage tanks.

The Department of Commerce operates like a private business enterprise, recovering costs through fees and assessments for its services.

Division of Administration
The division of Administration acts as a service entity to the entire department. Housed in the division of Administration are the offices of human resources, computer services, records management, fiscal and communications, legal counsel and legislative liaison.

Division of Financial Institutions
This division regulates financial institutions chartered in Ohio. The duties performed by the division include chartering depository institutions, registering and licensing non-depository financial services, and conducting on-site examinations. Industries regulated by this division are banks, savings and loan/savings banks, credit unions and consumer finance organizations. Consumer finance organizations include check cashing services, credit service organizations, insurance premium finance companies, mortgage brokers, pawnbrokers, precious metals dealers, second mortgage businesses and small loan businesses. All examinations, supervision and regulation activities are performed by division staff who specialize in the operations of each of these specific industries.

Division of Industrial Compliance
The division of Industrial Compliance (DIC) is a diverse regulatory agency serving Ohio's citizens by providing building and construction plans and reviews, inspections of plumbing, electrical and structural systems, on-site inspections of elevators, boilers, and bedding and upholstered products throughout the state. Additionally, the division provides testing, certification, licensing and continuing education services for numerous skilled trades within Ohio's building industry.

The DIC has three bureaus: the bureau of Construction Compliance includes the industrialized units, plumbing, pressure piping and structural and electrical permit and plan approval sections; the Bureau of Operations and Maintenance houses the backflow, bedding and upholstered furniture, boiler and elevator inspection sections; while the Bureau of Licensing and Certification contains the steam engineers section. In addition, DIC provides administrative support for several regulatory and oversight boards, such as the Board of Building Standards, the Board of Building Appeals, the Ohio Contraction Industry Examining Board, and the Ski-Tramway Board.

Division of Liquor Control
This division is responsible for controlling the manufacture, distribution and sale of all alcoholic beverages in Ohio. The division is the state's sole purchaser and distributor of spirituous liquor (intoxicating liquor containing more than 21 percent alcohol by volume). Spirituous liquor is sold through nearly 400 private businesses, know as liquor agencies, that the division contracts to serve as its sales agents. Regulatory functions handled by the division include the issuance of permits to the state's approximately 24,000 privately owned and operated manufacturers, distributors and retailers of alcoholic beverages. The division also regulates industry compliance of the laws pertaining to the manufacture, importation and distribution of beer, wine and mixed beverages containing less than 21 percent alcohol by volume in Ohio.

Applicants are screened by division staff to assure that legal qualifications for licensure are met. Additional protection is provided to the public by requiring licensees to be bonded.

Division of Securities
The division of Securities regulates the sale of securities in Ohio by administering the Ohio Securities Act. The act requires the licensing of those who sell securities, provides for the registration of certain types of securities sold, and prohibits certain conduct in connection with the sale of securities. Under the act, the division has the responsibility of protecting investors from unfair and fraudulent practices in the securities industry. By administering and enforcing the act, the division promotes an honest and fair securities market in Ohio where individuals and businesses can raise capital and investors can expect a fair return on their investment. Ohio law defines "security" broadly to include stocks, bonds, mutual funds, options, commercial paper and many other investment opportunities.

Ohio Revised Code Sections 121.41 through 121.50 give the Office of the Inspector General authority to investigate wrongful acts or omissions committed by state officers or state employees involved in the management and operation of state agencies. The jurisdiction of the Ohio Inspector General extends solely to state agencies and state employees within the executive branch of state government and specifically excludes the Ohio General Assembly, any Ohio court, and the offices of Secretary of State, Auditor, Treasurer, and Attorney General.

A person who wishes to file a complaint or to provide the Ohio Inspector General with information may do so by mail, fax, telephone, or e-mail. If appropriate, a complainant may request and be granted confidentiality if disclosure would place the complainant in jeopardy.

If, upon review, it appears a complaint does not constitute wrongdoing as defined by the Office of the Inspector General or does not fall within the jurisdiction of the office, then every effort is made to make a more appropriate referral. However, the Office of the Inspector General cannot offer legal advice.

At the conclusion of an investigation by the Office of the Inspector General, a Report of Investigation is completed documenting the investigative findings, results, and in some cases, recommendations and referrals. The report is then provided to the Governor and the agency subject to investigation. When appropriate, a Report of Investigation may also be forwarded to a prosecutor for review to determine whether the underlying facts merit a criminal prosecution.

The department's statutory mandate, as set forth in Title 39 of the Ohio Revised Code, is to regulate the insurance industry in the state of Ohio, including protecting and educating consumers, monitoring the financial health of insurers, licensing agents, reviewing insurance products sold in Ohio, investigating allegations of insurance fraud by individuals or agents, and regulating the conduct of insurance companies.

The superintendent of insurance, appointed by the Governor, is the chief executive officer and director of the department. A deputy director and chief of staff assist the superintendent in the performance of his or her duties. In addition, the superintendent serves as the state's insurance liquidator – a deputy liquidator oversees the daily operations of the separate liquidations office.

The department is divided into nine offices:

The Office of Executive Services houses the department's chief executive officer (superintendent of insurance) who serves as the ultimate regulatory and policy-making voice for the Department of Insurance to whom the deputy director, chief of staff, and each assistant director report directly. The office contains the following divisions:

The Communication Division is responsible for daily media relations with local, state, and national media outlets, approves departmental publications, writes and disseminates news releases; and the director of communications serves as a liaison to the Governor's communication staff.

The Policy and Legislation Division coordinates all department legislative activities and serves as a clearinghouse for any departmental initiatives requiring legislative action. It provides research on pending legislation and evaluates its fiscal impact to the department. It also monitors and evaluates National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC) activities. In addition, it responds to all constituent correspondence emanating from the legislature. The assistant director for policy & legislation serves as the department's liaison to the General Assembly.

The Office of General Services is responsible for day-to-day management and operation of the department and consists of the following divisions:

The Fiscal Division accounts for all fees due the state from insurance companies and agents; monitors and controls the department's operating budget; and processes and administers accounts payable and receivable.

The Human Resources Division analyzes the department's staffing needs and develops its staffing objectives. Its chief (human resources administrator) serves as the director's labor relations liaison for the department; develops staff training and tracks employee progress through the assessment and evaluation process; and coordinates Equal Employment Opportunity, Family Medical Leave Act and Americans with Disabilities Act compliance.

The Resource Management Division coordinates the department's procedures, procurement and planning as they relate to the administration of the physical plant of the department and is responsible for managing the department's facilities, staff travel arrangements, and telecommunications resources.

The Office of Information and Technology Service designs, implements, and maintains computer programs and applications; coordinates with the communications staff to design and maintain the department's Internet content; provides technical support and user training; and provides the public with license, company, and agent-related information.

The Office of Consumer Services is responsible for providing consumer education and information about insurance. It is comprised of two divisions:

The Consumer Services Division answers questions and assists consumers calling the department's toll-free hotline; investigates consumer complaints concerning all types of insurance; resolves disputes between companies and customers; identifies possible violations of the law for further and possible enforcement action; responds to on-line consumer inquiries and complaints, and interacts with consumers who visit the department.

The Ohio Senior Health Insurance Information Program (OSHIIP) helps Ohio's Medicare beneficiaries understand and navigate through Medicare, Medicaid and other health insurance issues. OSHIIP has trained more than 1,400 volunteers statewide to counsel beneficiaries at the local level, sponsors a speaker's bureau that provides presentations on a variety of insurance topics, and provides consumer-friendly publications.
The Office of Financial Regulation Services monitors the financial stability and solvency of insurance companies licensed in the state; conducts on-site financial examinations of every domestic insurer; and reviews and monitors insurers' annual financial statements to ensure the fiscal health of insurers conducting business in Ohio.

The Office of Investigative and Licensing Services serves as the department's clearinghouse for investigatory and licensing activities and is comprised of the following divisions:

The Fraud & Enforcement Division investigates allegations of unethical conduct and internal insurance fraud committed by agents companies and employees. Evidence of misconduct may result in fines, license suspensions/revocations or referral to the appropriate prosecutor. The division also investigates external insurance fraud perpetrated by claimants, insureds, and providers against insurers (e.g. fraudulent auto theft, arson-for-hire, and "padded" claims), and refers appropriate cases to local and federal prosecutors.

The Market Conduct Division conducts audits of the non-financial operations and performance of domestic insurance companies, and reviews the performance of the companies. Examinations are initiated by complaint data and other criteria determined by the director.

The Licensing Division processes applications for agent licensure with insurance companies, partnerships, public insurance adjusters, and non-resident brokers managing general agents, and third-party administrators, allowing them to conduct insurance business in Ohio. It also certifies prelicensed providers, and oversees the agent testing and continuing education administration processes, which are administered by a third-party vendor.

The Office of Legal Services reviews all corporate transactions, such as stock issuances, mergers, acquisitions, and investments of domestic insurers and provides legal research and counsel to the department and the director.

The Office of Life & Health Services has two divisions:

The Life & Health Division reviews the contractual provisions of all life and accident policies to ensure compliance with Ohio law, certifies that the policy forms are not deceptive nor misleading, and reviews premiums to ensure that rates charged are fair compared to policy benefits.

The Managed Care Division licenses prepaid health care plans (health insuring corporations, dental plans, and health care corporations) seeking to enroll Ohioans in managed-care programs; reviews all plan rates, filings, and contracts to ensure compliance with Ohio law; and investigates/resolves member complaints.

The Office of Property and Casualty Services reviews all rates, rules, and policy forms filed by companies authorized to write property and casualty insurance in Ohio. The lines of insurance subject to review by the Property and Casualty Officer include personal and commercial auto, homeowners, dwelling and commercial fire, general liability, professional liability (including medical malpractice, title, surety and home warranty insurance). The office reviews product rates, rules and forms, reviews purchasing group and risk retention group registrations and notifications, licenses surplus lines and brokers, and collects premium taxes for businesses with surplus line insurers.

The director of the Ohio Department of Job and Family Services (ODJFS) is appointed by the Governor and has administrative policy responsibility for financial and medical assistance and social services programs for eligible Ohioans. The Ohio Department of Job and Family Services was formed July 1, 2000, with the merger of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services and the Ohio Department of Human Services.

ODJFS develops and oversees programs and services designed to help Ohioans be healthy and safe, while gaining and maintaining employment and independence. These programs include: adoption, child care, child support, disability assistance, food stamps, foster care, labor exchange, Medicaid, Ohio Works First, the Prevention, Retention and Contingency program, protective services, unemployment compensation, veterans' services and workforce development.

Many department programs are administered locally by county departments of job and family services (CDJFS), county public children services agencies (PCSAs) and county child-support enforcement agencies (CSEAs). Other services, including unemployment compensation, are administered directly by the department. There are about 3,900 department employees. The department is organized with executive leadership consisting of the director and three senior deputy directors. The director's administrative staff includes seven executive assistants.

The Office of Chief Inspector provides internal risk management, civil rights review, and safety and security issues for the department.

The Office of Contract Administration provides oversight and guidance to program and project areas in the development and management of contracts. Major goals of the office are to promote contract strategies and to manage risk while realizing the constraints and opportunities with the various types of contracts within the program areas. Highly specialized expertise in contract development and contract management are necessary for the myriad of multimillion dollar IT and other technical contracts that allow the department to monitor, develop, oversee, and administer program activities and services. The office also provides oversight on behalf of the director on best practices and procedures for interdepartmental areas to draw upon.

The Office of Employee and Business Services manages all human-resources activities; handles printing and mass mailing, space and telecommunications planning, purchasing and receipt, inventory, storage and distribution of forms and equipment.

The Office of Family Stability assures quality services to promote employment, self-sufficiency, family stability, and personal responsibility and establish a safety net for emergency needs for Ohio citizens. These objectives are met through policy development, county guidance and support and collaboration with county agencies that operate employment, prevention and emergency services through cash assistance, food stamps, social services and employment services. The office also helps counties meet federal and state work participation rates and encourages counties to establish family self-sufficiency as their overriding goal. Other responsibilities include issuing policy, providing guidance and research development of policy and procedures governing the statewide implementation of human services programs. Staff also review, analyze, and interpret public assistance and food-stamp policy based on federal and state regulations and laws. The office provides training and support for county staff.

The Office of Fiscal Services processes all departmental encumbrances and payments to vendors, employees (non-payroll), recipients, providers and county agencies, deposits funds due to the department, including grant awards, fees, audit findings, assessments and reimbursements, and provides reconciliation of general ledger to federal financial reports. The Office of Legal Services advises the director on legal matters concerning human-services programs and policies; provides advice and consultation to administrative staff, supervises state hearings staff; provides access to public records, handles clearance and rule filing drafts, reviews contracts; conducts provider hearings; issues administrative appeal decisions; and provides litigation support to the Attorney General's office. The office is also responsible for the conduct of fair hearings.

The Office of Legislation advises the director on legislative matters; serves as the principal liaison for the department with the General Assembly; manages, develops and advocates for the department's legislative agenda; and serves as department spokesperson on legislative matters. This office also manages the thousands of inquiries the department receives regarding department programs from the Governor's office, state legislators, members of Congress and for the agency director.

The Office of Local Operations serves as primary liaison between the state and the county departments of Job and Family Services. This office provides support services to the 88 counties, businesses and service providers, in order to move clients from dependency to self-support through collaborative efforts and partnerships.

The Office of Management Information Services provides information system services for the department; reviews and approves state and county data processing needs; processes Medicaid, public assistance and social services claims; assists and trains Medicaid providers on billing procedures and responds to their questions; and maintains records on provider eligibility and enrolls new Medicaid providers.

The Office of Ohio Health Plans administers Ohio's Title XIX and Title XXI medical assistance and children's health insurance programs, including: establishing eligibility and level of care policies and standards; designing and pricing health care services, benefit packages, and delivery systems; coordinating benefits and paying claims; conducting utilization review and management activities; provider and network management; prior authorization of certain drugs, services and equipment; and member services.

The Office of Research, Assessment & Accountability provides a focal point in the department for program research, auditing and case review to evaluate the effectiveness of policies, procedures, and programs; works in partnership with county agencies to improve Food Stamp Program-payment accuracy and fraud reduction; and makes available to ODJFS and county agency management financial, statistical and performance data for decision-making and program improvement.

The Office of Unemployment Compensation is divided into four bureaus each sharing responsibility for accomplishing its missions. The Bureau of Unemployment Compensation Tax administers the tax- and wage-record provisions of the Ohio Unemployment Compensation Law. The Bureau of Benefit Payments is responsible for the central processing of benefit claims. The Bureau of Program Services is responsible for several specialized unemployment program functions, including internal security, labor dispute determinations, tax reconsideration decisions, employer seasonal status determinations, representation of the director before the Unemployment Compensation Review commission, coordination of information sharing with other offices and agencies and administration of the profiling program. The Bureau of Benefits Integrity audits, investigates, and issues policies on the operations of the Unemployment Compensation Benefits program. Overpayment determinations are pursued against flagrant violators attempting to cheat the system.

The Office of Workforce Development provides services for job seekers by assisting in career counseling, education, labor market information, job listings, and information on unemployment compensation. Services to employers include assistance with posting current job openings, resumes and finding employees for current procedures for reporting new hires, labor market information, tax credit programs and unemployment compensation.

In 1971, Ohio State Senator Ron Mottl spearheaded a statewide lobbying campaign to create a lottery in Ohio. State Issue 1, the creation of the Ohio Lottery Commission, was approved by voters in 1973 by better than a 2 – 1 margin. Tickets for Ohio's first game, Buckeye 300, went on sale in August 1974.

In Fiscal Year 2005, the Ohio Lottery Commission received a new responsibility: administration and monitoring of charitable bingo licensing. The new responsibility was the result of a memo of understanding between the Lottery Commission and the Attorney General's Office.

Chapter 3770 of the Ohio Revised Code sets the parameters for the agency's operations, as it pertains to the selling of lottery games. Chapter 2915 of the Ohio Revised Code sets the parameters for the agency's administration of charitable gaming. The Lottery is presently the only state agency with headquarters outside of Columbus. The Lottery's central office is located in downtown Cleveland in the Frank Lausche State Office Building.

Besides having its headquarters in Cleveland, the Lottery has nine regional offices located throughout the state. These include Columbus, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Toledo, Dayton, Athens, Canton, Youngstown and Lorain. Each office is headed by a regional manager, with an assistant manager and a number of sales representatives determined by the number of lottery retailers in the region. The Lottery Commission originally had a five-member board that oversaw all lottery operations, but now has a nine-member Commission that serves in an advisory capacity. Commissioners are appointed by the Governor to staggered three-year terms with the advice and consent of the Senate.

The Lottery is classified as an enterprise fund of the state of Ohio, and is presented as a blended component unit in the state's financial statements. The statutes that govern the Lottery require the Lottery to pay out at least 50 percent of ticket sales back to the players in the form of prizes. In July 1983, the Ohio Legislature earmarked lottery profits to education. However, it was not until November 1987 that voters overwhelmingly approved a constitutional amendment to permanently earmark lottery profits for education. In March 1988, House Bill 789 created the Lottery Profits Education Fund, allowing for a clear separation of lottery dollars from the state's general-revenue fund.

The Lottery's goal is to maximize profits, which by law are transferred to the Lottery Profits Education Fund.

In Fiscal Year 2004, the Lottery contributed more than $648 million to the Lottery Profits Education Fund. Since the Lottery's inception in 1974, the Ohio Lottery Commission has contributed more that $13 billion to education in Ohio. While this is a significant amount of money, the state of Ohio has more than 600 school districts and the statewide education budget in Fiscal Year 2003 was $14.9 billion, according to the Ohio Department of Education.

There are 12 primary divisions within the Ohio Department of Natural Resources. The Division of Engineering provides a full range of engineering and construction services to ODNR's land-holding divisions. The Division of Forestry manages 20 state forests and provides forest management assistance to private woodland owners in Ohio. The division provides assistance to local communities through urban forestry programs and works to prevent destruction of forest lands by fires, insects and disease. The Division of Geological Survey studies and publishes information about the mineral resources, fossil fuels, economic geology, geomorphology, stratigraphy, paleontology, mineralogy and geologic structure of Ohio. ODNR biologists conduct special studies on energy or mineral resources within the state, develop and distribute maps, and produce data portraying Ohio's geology.

The Division of Mineral Resources Management regulates oil and gas production, surface and underground mining of coal and industrial minerals, and reclamation activities. It plugs abandoned oil and gas wells and restores abandoned mine lands, and maintains a database of oil and gas well owners.

The Division of Natural Areas & Preserves manages 127 state nature preserves which represent characteristic examples of Ohio's natural landscape types, natural vegetation, habitat for rare and endangered species, and geological formations. The division oversees a system of 20 state scenic rivers – including three with national scenic river status – that are preserved and protected for the enjoyment of all Ohioans.

Ohio's 74 state parks are overseen by the Division of Parks and Recreation. They offer a variety of facilities including resort lodges, cabins, beaches, golf courses, campgrounds and hiking trails.

The Division of Real Estate & Land Management provides all real estate services for approximately 500,000 acres managed by ODNR programs; coordinates the environmental review process; provides property management services for the nine buildings and 22 acre headquarter facility; and administers the implementation of several recreational grants including NatureWorks and the Clean Ohio Trails Fund Program. Additionally, statewide recycling and litter prevention programs and grants are administered to encourage local government and private sector activities that promote collection, processing, and marketing of recycled materials. A scrap tire recycling grant program is also administered that creates a demand for scrap tires through partnership projects that increase the demand for these materials.

The Division of Soil and Water Conservation, working through Ohio's 88 soil and water conservation districts, assists government agencies, businesses, and private landowners in natural resources management and land use planning decisions. It conducts soil inventories and publishes interpretive soil reports and maps, monitors changes in land use, and recommends management practices to meet water quality standards relating to agricultural pollution and urban sediment abatement.

The Division of Water has broad responsibilities for managing water resources, collecting data, developing ground water resource and pollution potential maps, and providing technical assistance on ground water quantity management in Ohio. The division issues permits for the construction of dams and inspects existing dams. The division studies all factors relating to flooding and water supply in the state.

The Division of Watercraft administers and enforces all laws regarding identification, numbers, titling, use and operation of recreational boats on Ohio's waters; conducts watercraft safety education programs; and develops boating facilities on major water areas of the state.

The Division of Wildlife promotes hunting and fishing opportunities in the state while it protects and improves wildlife resources, including fish, game, and non-game species through law enforcement, research programs, improvement of habitat, and establishment of native species.

To assist the work of these divisions, there are several centralized support offices with the Department of Natural Resources: Office of Human Resources, Office of Information Technology, Office of Budget and Finance, and Office of Communications. A number of advisory councils, boards and commissions have been established to provide public participation in the formulation of plans and policies for the department and its various divisions.

The Ohio Department of Public Safety (ODPS) was created by the 100th General Assembly and activated on October 2, 1953. The mission of the department is to save lives, reduce injuries and economic losses on the streets and highways of Ohio, and to regulate driver licensing and vehicle registration with the most cost-effective methods available. This mission is achieved through the combined efforts of the Administration Division, Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Ohio Homeland Security, the Ohio State Highway Patrol, Emergency Medical Services, the Ohio Emergency Management Agency, and the Investigative Unit.

Administration Division
The Administration division works to maintain, facilitate and enhance the operations of the six other divisions of ODPS in their efforts to protect and serve the citizens of Ohio. The division encompasses seven sections: business services, data services, fiscal services, Governor's Highway Safety Office, human resource management, information technology and internal audit.

Business Services provides customers with support services relative to receiving, storing, inventorying and distributing supplies, mail, correspondence, and records; maintains a healthy safe work environment and responds to departmental facility needs while maximizing the life cycle of the department facilities; provides high-quality print and graphic services; and provides procurement services.

Data Services provides summaries of crash information, serves as a central depository of all of Ohio's reportable crashes, responds to various inquiries regarding crashes; processes and tracks fatal-crash data for NHTSA through the Fatality Analysis Reporting system (FARS), and provides an annual Crash Fact book to the public at no cost.

Fiscal Services ensures financial activities by maintaining fiscal controls and operational functions as they relate to processes, such as the preparation of biennial budgets, fiscal programs, payroll and accounts payable/receivable.

The Governor's Highway Safety Office works with Ohio communities that are interested in traffic safety, utilizing the most innovative and efficient methods possible of managing state and federal resources, and provides traffic education and grants to external customers.

Human Resource Management manages personnel issues, as well as employee training and benefits.

Information Technology provides information technology services to the ODPS, the Title Clerk of Courts and the Deputy Registrars' offices. They design, build and maintain the core infrastructure for network connectivity, application deployment, server integration, communication interfaces, data backups, mass storage disks, software and operating systems. They also support the ODPS by addressing the software technology challenges that confront the different business areas.

Internal Audit assists the ODPS by bringing a systematic, disciplined approach to evaluating and improving the effectiveness of risk management, control, and governance processes. They work closely with management to assess operational risks, and ensure that the risks are minimized by effective controls.

Bureau of Motor Vehicles
The Ohio Bureau of Motor Vehicles (BMV) is responsible for the issuance of driver licenses, registration of motor vehicles, maintenance of driver and vehicle records, issuance of motor vehicle and dealer and salesperson licenses, the appropriate distribution of revenue received from motor-vehicle registrations, permissive tax, and the international registration plan.

To carry out these responsibilities, the BMV maintains the Automated Title Processing System (ATPS) for the 88 county clerks of court title offices; directs the selection and supervision of more that 215 private-contractor deputy registrars; maintains the Law Enforcement Automated Data System (LEADS), which is used by law enforcement to verify vehicle ownership, driver-license status, assign penalties under the state's point and financial responsibility laws; and reinstate driver license privileges when appropriate, is the source of special and stock-issue license plates, state identification cards, driver licenses, and disability parking placards; and oversees the International Registration Plan (IRP) for commercial trucks.

The Office of Criminal Justice Services (OCJS) serves as the lead state criminal justice services agency and performs criminal justice system planning in the state, including any planning that is required by any federal law (ORC 5502.62).

The primary objective of OCJS is to apply for, allocate, disburse and account for grants that are made available pursuant to federal criminal justice acts, including funds received under the Family Violence Prevention and Services Act, or from other federal, state or private sources to improve the criminal justice system in the state. OCJS also monitors and evaluates the performance of criminal justice system projects.

Ohio Homeland Security
Protecting Ohioans from potential acts of terrorism is central to Public Safety's mission. Homeland Security was established as a new division within Public Safety in September 2003 to strengthen Ohio's commitment to addressing the new threats and challenges of terrorism in wake of the September 11, 2001 attacks. The Homeland Security Division also oversees the licensing and regulation of private investigators and security guards.

Ohio State Highway Patrol
The Ohio State Highway Patrol provides traffic law enforcement, assistance to motorists on rural highways, technical traffic crash investigations, size and weight enforcement, polygraph examinations for local law enforcement agencies, homeland security and security in state office buildings. It also inspects school buses twice a year, provides uniformed officers to conduct safety-education programs, assists BMV with giving driver license exams, inspects commercial driver-training schools, helps control illegal narcotics, administers the state's random motor-vehicle inspection program and apprehends criminals wanted by local law-enforcement agencies. In addition, Patrol aircraft assist local law enforcement with crime and safety problems. The Ohio State Highway Patrol investigates crimes on state-owned or state–leased property and provides executive protection for the Governor.

The Highway Patrol Academy provides specialized training for state, county and municipal police officers, provides training to other police officers through videotapes produced by the academy, provides a basic police school on subjects prescribed by the Ohio Police Officer Training Council, and provides recruitment and training for troopers. Highway Patrol cadet and basic police training is available for new law enforcement recruits, as well as in-depth, specialized courses for veteran officers.

Emergency Medical Services
The Emergency Medical Services (EMS) section, in cooperation with the State Board of Emergency Medical Services, is responsible for overseeing emergency medical services in Ohio. The State Board of EMS consists of 20 members representing various organizations involved in EMS and has 11 advisory groups: air medical, education, EMS for children, fire, grants, homeland security, incident reporting systems, investigations, medical oversight, rules and trauma.

The EMS section is responsible for the certification and recertification of Ohio's emergency medical technicians, firefighters, and fire safety inspectors. In addition, the section issues accreditations of all EMS training institutions.

Emergency Management Agency

The Ohio Emergency Management Agency is the division within the Department of Public Safety that coordinates response to and recovery from disasters. The primary focus of the agency, when not in response or recovery mode, is to ensure that state and local emergency management organizations and the citizens of Ohio are prepared to respond to disasters and to lead mitigation efforts against the effects of future disasters.

Ohio EMA coordinates federal, state, local, and volunteer resources and financial assistance and administers state and federal funds to meet preparedness, mitigation, and disaster-related needs. Ohio EMA consists of an executive branch, which includes public affairs, and three divisions: operations, grants, and technical services. The three divisions are divided into ten branches: plans, field operations, training & exercises, radiological, program grants, disaster recovery, mitigation, data management, fiscal, communications, and facilities management/logistics/calibration.

Investigative Unit

The primary mission of the Investigative Unit division is the enforcement of laws, rules and regulations that pertain to alcoholic beverages, and the sale and/or trading of food stamps and Electronic Benefit Transfer cards. In 1999, the Investigative Unit, through an act of legislation, received the authority to investigate the sale of tobacco products to underage persons. These three distinctive functions are carried out in all 88 counties by the 120 men and women of the Investigative Unit. The agents maintain their role as a positive liaison throughout Ohio by also offering professional training and educational programs to local law enforcement agencies and the general public.

Public Utilities Commission of Ohio

Mission Statement: To assure all residential and industrial customers access to adequate, safe, and reliable utility services at fair prices, while facilitating an environment that provides competitive choices.

The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO) has rate and service jurisdiction over Ohio investor-owned utilities and telecommunication service providers. In addition, the PUCO has safety regulation jurisdiction over transportation carriers and gas pipeline operators. Because its decisions affect every household in Ohio, as well as the state economy, the PUCO encourages public involvement in its open decision-making process.

Commission offices consist of the commissioners and their aides, as well as the chief of staff, which encompasses departmental supervision, human resources, office services, and fiscal management, and the Office of Public Affairs, which encompasses the legislative liaison, media relations, education programs, and webmaster.

Administration provides internal support including centralized information processing, docketing, and word processing necessary for the day-to-day operations of the agency.

The Attorney General's Public Utilities Section represents the PUCO staff before the Commission and represents the Commission before the Ohio Supreme Court, other state and federal courts, and federal administrative agencies.

The Service Monitoring and Enforcement Department examines the quality of service provided by utility companies to ensure that safe, reliable services are being provided. The department also handles requests for information, takes complaints, and resolves consumer problems without the need for a formal hearing. Consumers can reach the Service Monitoring and Enforcement Department through their toll-free hotline at (800) 686-7826.

The Legal Department reviews legal issues, conducts public hearings, and prepares orders and entries for review by the commissioners.

Transportation regulates railroad, trucking, and watercraft companies across a broad range of activities. The PUCO places strong emphasis on safety in the commercial trucking and railroad industries. The public can report transportation regulatory safety concerns by calling the toll-free hotline at (800) 686-7826. To increase motorist and pedestrian safety, the department provides technical help and allocates federal and state funds for safety devices at railroad grade crossings. The Utilities Department processes utility rate-change requests, performs technical investigations and financial reviews, develops programs, and implements policies in the regulation of gas, electric, water, wastewater, and telephone companies. The department provides technical support to the Commission through its analyses, options, and recommendations on current and future regulatory issues.

The Ohio Board of Regents is an agency of state government created in 1963 by an act of the Ohio General Assembly. It has statutory authority for a broad range of planning, coordinating, and budgeting activities on behalf of Ohio higher education. Governance authority for individual colleges and universities rests with each institution's board of trustees.

The Board of Regents establishes broad policy directions for higher education through issue papers, reports, policy studies, and a "master plan" series. In consultation with colleges and universities, the Board of Regents develops operating and capital budget recommendations for state support and distributes appropriated funds. Responsibility for authorizing colleges and universities to offer degree credit instruction rests with the Board of Regents.

The chancellor, the Regents' chief administrative officer, is appointed by and reports to the board. The chancellor, the Board of Regents, and staff work closely with the Governor, the General Assembly, and individual colleges and universities.

Department of Taxation

The tax commissioner is the principal administrative officer of the Department of Taxation. The tax commissioner is responsible for enforcing Ohio tax laws to the extent that the administration has been legally assigned to this office, and has the discretion to establish such a structure as will render the administration of the tax efficient and effective. Currently, principal operating, staff functions and responsibilities within the department are divided into seven divisions: Sales Tax, Property Tax, Personal Income and Corporate Franchise Tax Audit, Income Tax Service, Estate tax, Excise and Motor Vehicle Tax, and Tax Equalization. The department also maintains district offices in eight Ohio cities: Akron, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Toledo, Youngstown, and Zanesville. There are three out-of-state offices in Chicago, Los Angeles and New York.

The Department of Taxation, with a single commissioner at its head, was created in 1939. Prior to that, Ohio tax administration had been centered in a three-member Tax Commission that had been created in 1910 to consolidate the tax enforcement activities previously assigned to a variety of state offices. The position of tax commissioner is an appointive one serving at the pleasure of the Governor.

A separate department of Tax Equalization was created in 1976 and in 1993 became a division of the Department of Taxation. The Tax Equalization division supervises the 88 county auditors in determining the valuation of real property for taxation. The Board of Tax Appeals hears appeals from decisions and rulings of the Department of Taxation.

To administer the taxes assigned to this department, the law grants the tax commissioner broad powers, duties and functions, which include the right and duty to make all tax assessments, valuations, determinations, computations and orders; refund and remit taxes or assessments; and issue certificates of abatement as to certain state revenue; revoke licenses; and adopt and promulgate rules and regulations. The commissioner maintains a division of research and statistics (Tax Analysis and Local Government Distributions Division) to study the tax and revenue system. A journal is maintained, open to public inspection, which contains a record of the commissioner's assessment actions. Objections to all tax assessment, certifications of valuation and audit findings as originally determined by the Department of Taxation are subject to administrative review by the commissioner. The commissioner also maintains a hearing board, which functions only in an advisory capacity. The tax commissioner's final determination may be appealed to the Board of Tax Appeals in the manner provided by law.

Bureau of Workers' Compensation

Ohio's rich history of helping employees and employers throughout the state cope with work-related injuries, diseases and deaths dates back to 1911. That is when the first Ohio Workmen's Compensation Act became law. Today, Ohio's workers' compensation system remains an essential partner in ensuring the safety, health and economic well-being of all Ohioans.

The program, a no-fault system, offers protection from costly lawsuits to employers and guaranteed benefits to injured workers. It is comprised of two parts: the Ohio Bureau of Worker's Compensation (BWC), the administrative and insurance arm; and the Industrial Commission of Ohio (IC), its claims adjudicative branch. The Ohio Revised Code governs both agencies.

BWC is the only insurance entity that may underwrite workers' compensation insurance in the state. It provides insurance to approximately two-thirds of Ohio's work force. The remaining workers receive coverage directly through their employers. These companies are part of a self-insurance program for large and financially stable employers who meet strict qualifications set by BWC.

With more than $19 billion in assets, BWC is the largest exclusive state-fund workers' compensation system in the United States and the fourth largest underwriter of workers' compensation in the country.

BWC maintains a central office in Columbus and customer service offices located throughout the state. BWC manages all lost-time claims, initiates coverage and determines premium rates and manual classifications. The agency also collects premiums from employers, determines the initial allowance or denial on claim applications, disburses money to pay compensation and medical costs, keeps account records, develops actuarial data and manages the state insurance fund.

Through its Division of Safety & Hygiene (DSH), BWC promotes safer, healthier workplaces for Ohio workers and employers. BWC allocates 1 percent of all premium dollars to developing and presenting safety and health education and services.

DSH performs research to prevent industrial accidents and diseases, and offers safety training, and accident and occupational disease-prevention programs to employers and their employees. The division provides consultation services in ergonomics, industrial hygiene and other safety related matters to reduce the number and severity of workplace injuries.

A governor-appointed administrator/chief executive officer and an 11-member Worker's Compensation Oversight Commission oversee BWC. Of the seven voting members, two represent business, two represent workers, one represents the public and two are investment experts. Four legislative non-voting members round out the commission. The commission has the authority to review BWC's progress in meeting cost and quality objectives, to make recommendations about premium rates, to establish an investment policy and to advise on administrative rules.

The IC hears and decides contested claims and determines permanent total disability. The governor appoints the three-member IC board and the Ohio Senate confirms it. One member represents labor, one represents industry and one represents the public. There are three appeal levels for workers' compensation claims.

Judiciary Court of Ohio

The court system of Ohio consists of the Supreme Court, the highest court in the state, consisting of a chief justice and six justices, elected at large for terms of six years; 12 Courts of Appeals, each consisting of a minimum of three judges elected for terms of six years, and exercising jurisdiction within districts established by law; a Court of Common Pleas in each county of the state that includes general, probate, domestic relations, and juvenile divisions. Municipal Courts, which exercise jurisdiction as established by law; County Courts; and Mayors' Courts.

This system can be divided into two parts: courts of appellate trial and jurisdiction courts. The appellate courts exist on two levels; the Supreme Court and the intermediate courts of appeals. Both the appellate courts are the trial courts. The trial courts afford litigants the opportunity to be heard, to present witnesses, and in a proper case, to have issues heard and decided by a jury.

The Supreme Court of Ohio

65 S. Front St., Columbus, OH 43215-3431

(614) 587-9500 www.sconet.state.oh.us

2007-2012 (six-year term)

The Supreme Court of Ohio is established by Article IV, Section 1, of the Ohio Constitution, which provides that "the judicial power of the state is vested in a Supreme Court, Courts of Appeals, Court of Common Pleas and divisions thereof, and such other courts inferior to the Supreme Court as many from time to time be established by law."

Article IV, Section 2, of the Constitution sets the size of the Court at seven – a Chief Justice and six Justices – and outlines the jurisdiction of the Court.

The Supreme Court is the court of last resort in Ohio. Most of its cases are appeals from the 12 district courts of appeals. The Court may grant leave to appeal criminal cases from the courts of appeals and may direct any court of appeals to certify its record on civil cases that are found to be "cases of public or great general interest."

The Court must accept appeals of cases that originated in the courts of appeals; cases involving the death penalty; cases involving questions arising under the U.S. Constitution or the Ohio Constitution; and cases in which there have been conflicting opinions from two or more courts of appeals.

The Court must also accept appeals from such administrative bodies as the Board of Tax Appeals and the Public Utilities Commission.

The Court has original jurisdiction for certain special remedies that permit a person to file an action in the Supreme Court. These extraordinary remedies include writs of habeas corpus (involving the release of persons allegedly unlawfully imprisoned or committed), writs of mandamus and procedendo (ordering a public official to do a required act), writs of prohibition (ordering a lower court to cease an unlawful act), and writs of quo warranto (against a person or corporation for usurpation, misuse or abuse of public office or corporate office or franchise).

The Supreme Court makes rules governing practice and procedure in Ohio's courts, such as the Rules of Evidence, Rules of Civil Procedure and Rules of Criminal Procedure. Procedural rules adopted by the Supreme Court become effective unless both houses of the General Assembly adopt a concurrent resolution of disapproval. The Supreme Court also exercises general superintendence over all state courts through its rule-making authority. The rules of superintendence set minimum standards for court administration statewide. Unlike procedural rules, rules of superintendence do not have to be submitted to the General Assembly to become effective.

The Chief Justice assigns judges to courts for temporary duty in cases of a court overload, where a judge has been removed from a case because of an affidavit of disqualification, or where a judge has recused himself or herself from a particular case.

The Court has authority over the admission of attorneys to practice of law in Ohio and may discipline admitted attorneys who violate the rules governing the practice of law.

The Chief Justice and six Justices are elected to 6-year terms on a nonpartisan ballot. Two Justices are chosen at the general election in even-numbered years. In the year when the Chief Justice is on the ballot, voters elect three members of the Court. A person must be an attorney with at least six years of experience in the practice of law to be elected or appointed to the Court. Appointments are made by the governor for vacancies that occur between elections.

Court of Claims
65 S. Front St., 3rd Flr., Columbus, OH 43215

(614) 466-7190

The Court of Claims is given original jurisdiction to hear and determine all civil actions filed against the State of Ohio and its agencies. The court also hears appeals from decisions made by the Attorney General on claims allowed under the Victims of Crime Act.

The Court of Claims decides civil claims that typically involve contract disputes, property damage, personal injury, immunity of state officers and employees, discrimination, and wrongful imprisonment. The Chief Justice assigns judges to hear such cases. In almost every instance, a single judge will hear a case, but the Chief Justice may assign a panel of three judges to a civil action that presents novel or complex issues of law and fact.

Civil complaints filed for $2,500 or less are decided on the contents of the case file or "administratively" by the clerk of the court or a deputy clerk. Appeals from those decisions ("administrative determinations") may be taken to a judge of the court upon motion for court review. The court's judgment cannot be the subject of further appeal.

Crime victims' appeals are heard and determined by a panel of three commissioners who are appointed by the Supreme Court for a six-year term. A further and final appeal from the panel's decisions may be taken to a judge of the court. As in the case of administrative determinations, the judge's decision is final.

OHIO HISTORY

On January 3, 1778, Lieutenant George Rogers Clark, upon recommendation of Patrick Henry, Governor of Virginia, received a commission from the Legislature of Virginia to secure the lands north of the Ohio River from British troops that were positioned in Illinois.

The fame of George Rogers Clark in a great measure is based upon the success of this campaign, which ended in the conquest of the Northwest Territory. The Ordinance of 1787 provided for the government of this acquired territory and was adopted by the Confederate Congress on July 13 of that year. On October 5, 1787, under the ordinance's provisions, Arthur St. Clair was elected Governor of the Northwest Territory.

The first Congress of the United States approved an act in August 1789, which adopted the provisions of the Ordinance of 1787 to the new federal Constitution and provided for the appointment of the governor, judges and secretary of the new territory by the president, upon the confirmation of the Senate. In case of death, removal, resignation or necessary absence of the governor, the appointed secretary of the Territory became acting governor. Upon the call of General St. Clair, the first formal meeting of the legislative body within the present limits of Ohio was held in Cincinnati on May 29, 1795.

The first General Assembly of the Northwest Territory was held in Cincinnati, September 16 to December 19, 1799, at which William Henry Harrison, then acting as secretary of the Territory, was elected a delegate to Congress. Charles Willing Byrd succeeded Mr. Harrison as secretary.

The second General Assembly met in Chillicothe on November 23, 1801, and continued in session until January 23, 1802. On April 30, 1802, an act was passed by Congress authorizing the formation of a state government for Ohio. On November 1, the first Constitutional Convention assembled in Chillicothe and, in the following words, adopted a Constitution for Ohio: "We, the people of the eastern division of the territory of the United States northwest of the River Ohio, do ordain and establish the following Constitution or form of Government, and do mutually agree with each other to form ourselves into a free and independent state by the name of the state of Ohio." The convention concluded its work on "the 29th day of November in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and two, and of the Independence of the United States of America, the twenty-seventh."

In the meantime, the commission of Governor St. Clair was revoked under the date of November 22, and Secretary Charles Willing Byrd assumed the duties of governor of the Northwest Territory.

The Constitution provided for the first election of governor, members of the General Assembly and county officials to be held in each county of the state of Ohio on the second Tuesday of January 1803. The following counties were in existence at that time: Adams, Belmont, Clermont, Fairfield, Hamilton, Jefferson, Ross, Trumbull and Washington. Edward Tiffin, who had served as president of the Constitution Convention, was elected governor of Ohio without opposition and assumed office with other state and county officials on March 1, 1803.

When the Ordinance of 1787 was formally put into operation on July 17, 1788, the capital was established at Marietta. The capital remained at Marietta until 1800 when it was moved by the Congressional Act of May 7 to Chillicothe. The first state constitution, adopted in 1802, stated the capital was to remain there until at least 1808. Soon after the expiration of this limit, opposition developed to continuing the capital at Chillicothe. A petition was received early in 1810 from Zanesville requesting the relocation of the capital to that city and agreeing that such change would be made without expense to the state. The Legislature of 1809 moved the capital to Zanesville until such time as a permanent site should be selected. However, the approaching War of 1812 made it necessary to move the capital back to Chillicothe, where there was less danger from attack by the Indians and British.

The capital was permanently located in Columbus by the Legislative Act of February 14, 1812, but provided that until the new statehouse was ready for occupancy, Chillicothe should be the temporary capital. The act of February 17, 1816, formally designated Columbus as the capital "from and after the second Tuesday of October 1816." The Chillicothe Statehouse was destroyed by fire on February 1, 1852.

State Facilities

The erection of the present capitol building began in 1838 and was not completed until 1861, although it was formally dedicated January 6, 1857. The Ohio Capitol building is made of limestone, quarried near the city, and the architecture is Greek Revival. The erection of the Department of Justice Building, or Annex as it is commonly known, located east and adjoining the Capitol Building, was commenced in 1899 and completed in 1901.

In 1925, the 86th General Assembly of Ohio enacted the law creating the State Building Commission to be composed of the governor of Ohio, attorney general and the auditor of state. The commission was assigned the duty of erecting a state office building and making alterations to the present capitol building. In 1929, the 88th General Assembly of Ohio amended the Act of 1925 so that the commission would be comprised of five members to be appointed by the governor and to be known as the State Office Building Commission. The Act of 1929 provided for the acquisition of a site and the construction of a state office building. Governor Myers Y. Cooper appointed the State Office Building Commission July 8, 1929, and the general contract for the erection of the Ohio Departments of State Building was signed October 6, 1930.

When nearly completed, the building was damaged on April 14, 1932 by a terrific explosion. The repairs and reconstruction cost approximately $750,000. The cause of the explosion was traced to a leaky gas main, and on April 16, 1934, the State of Ohio was paid $450,000 for damages. The completed building, located on Front Street in Columbus, was opened March 20, 1933.

The steel building is fireproofed with an exterior finish of Georgia marble. The lower stories of the building are of ornamental design with stone carvings depicting the resources, industry and early history of Ohio. The various hearing rooms are decorated with murals depicting Ohio history, while Hearing Room No. 2 is said to be one of the most beautiful assembly rooms in the United States.

The 41-story James A. Rhodes State Office Tower, which houses an estimated 4,000 employees, opened in April 1974. Located at 30 E. Broad St. across from the north side of the Statehouse, the building is the home of the Treasurer of State and the Attorney General. It also contains several state agencies, including the Departments of Administrative Services, Taxation, Budget and Management and the office of Information Technology. To achieve uninterrupted, flexible office space, all elevators, stairs, and mechanical and utility shafts are expressed up the outside of the 629-foot tower. Three parking levels and a public concourse to the Statehouse are below ground level. The structure is faced with bronze anodized windows with bronze-tinted glass and a granite facing. Pedestrian ramps and a grade-level, multi-tiered lobby were designed to complement surrounding buildings and walks.

On December 15, 1988, the Vern Riffe Center for Government and the Arts at 77 S. High St. was opened. The 32-story granite building, which faces the west side of the Ohio Capitol building, houses 2,000 state employees by day, and theater-goers and art gallery visitors by night. The center houses offices of the Ohio House of Representatives, the Governor(?) and Lieutenant Governor, Department of Commerce, Department of Development and a variety of other state departments. In addition, the center has an art gallery, operated by the Ohio Arts Council, and three theaters. The Vern Riffe Center for Government and the Arts, with 1.1 million square feet, cost $130 millon to build. An atrium lobby with a six-story clock tower joins two larger towers. The clock is 10 feet in diameter and weighs 700 pounds.

By 1989, the Ohio Capitol and Annex buildings were more than 125 years old and had fallen into a state of disrepair. Through the years, much of the historic and aesthetic qualities of the structures had been lost. In addition, the unsafe structures did not conform to 20th century building codes. Between 1989 and 1996, the buildings were restored to their original splendor. The renovated Ohio Capitol and Annex were officially unveiled during week-long events from July 3 through 9, 1996. The renovated Ohio Capitol now features mid-19th century charm, including gas lamps and Civil War-era furniture, and meets 20th century needs with an improved electrical system for computers, compliance with fire code and access for the disabled. The renovated Ohio Capitol also features the return of natural light to the rotunda, educational displays, hands-on computer kiosks, a gift shop and a café.

In February 2004, the Supreme Court of Ohio Ohio vacated offices in the Rhodes State Office Tower and moved to the former Ohio Departments Building at 65 S. Front Street in downtown Columbus. Now called the Ohio Judicial Center, the refurbished building houses about 250 employees of the Supreme Court and marks the first time the judiciary branch is housed separately from the other two branches of state government.

Construction on the Ohio Judicial Center began in 2001 when architects began the task of restoring the building to its past splendor-- including 61 murals and the depiction of numerous Ohio politicians, American Indian leaders and Ohio Cities-- while modernizing it for technologically advanced office needs. Renovation included restoring the building's Grand Concourse and its original hearing rooms. Today, the largest hearing room serves the main courtroom for the Ohio Supreme Court. Additionally, the building includes an education center, as well as the Supreme Court library, which is housed in the former State Library.

Ohio Seal

The Great Seal is an engraved stamp that is used to make an impression on public documents. It is evidence of the genuineness and authority of such papers. The Coat of Arms is the figure or device on the seal.

The Constitution of 1802 provided that there should be a seal kept by the Governor to be called "The Great Seal of the State of Ohio." This provision was inserted without change in the Constitution of 1851. In 1803, the legislature passed a law authorizing the making of a two-inch seal to contain the following device: In the foreground a sheaf of wheat and sheaf of 17 arrows with a mountain in the background over which shall appear a rising sun. The arrows indicate that Ohio was the 17th state admitted to the Union, and the mountain and rising sun indicate that it was the first state west of the Alleghenies. The mountain shown on the seal is Mt. Logan near Chillicothe. This law was repealed in 1805 and there was no law to take its place until 1866. As a result, Great Seals of many sizes and devices came into use at various times.

The laws of 1866 required so complicated a device that the law was repealed in 1868, and a new act was passed re-enacting the original law of 1803 with a single change that a range of mountains be used instead of a single mountain. Slight changes with respect to the use of 17 rays radiating from the sun, a foreground representing the Scioto River (near the Mount Logan setting of the State Seal), and cultivated fields, were made in 1967.

In 1996, the number of rays radiating from the sun was reduced to 13. These rays represent the 13 original colonies of the United States.

Coat of Arms

The coat of arms of the state shall consist of the following device: A shield in form, a circle; on it, in the foreground on the right, a sheaf of wheat; on the left, a bundle of 13 arrows, both standing erect; in the background, and rising above the sheaf and arrows, a mountain range, over which shall appear a rising sun.

State Motto

Effective October 1, 1959, a law passed by the General Assembly adopted as Ohio's new motto, "With God, All Things Are Possible."

It was suggested by a Cincinnati boy, James Mastronardo, when he was nine years-old. He lobbied the General Assembly to accept it and was successful as he was nearing the age of 12. The 1959 law makes no reference to the motto's inclusion on the State Seal.

In 1866, a law was passed providing for the inscription of a motto on the state seal. The motto adopted was "Imperium in Imperio" -- an empire within a empire, or a government within a government. However, this motto did not meet with general approval and the law was repealed in 1868. The law of 1868 made provisions for the seal without a motto.

State Flag

The General Assembly in 1902 enacted a law, which became effective May 9, 1902, authorizing and describing the state flag. The following is the essential text of the act:

"The flag of the state of Ohio shall be pennant shaped. It shall have three red and two white, horizontal stripes; the union of flag shall be seventeen five-pointed stars, white, in a blue rectangular field, the base of which shall be the staff end or vertical edge of the flag, and the apex of which shall be the center of the middle red stripe. The stars shall be grouped around a red disc superimposed upon a white circular."

The flag was designed by John Eisemann, architect, whos explained the symbolism of the flag as follows:

"The triangle formed by the main lines of the flag represents the hills and valleys, as typified in the State Seal, and the stripes the roads and waterways. The stars, indicating the thirteen original states of the Union are grouped about the circle which represents the Northwest Territory, and that Ohio was the seventeenth state admitted to the Union is shown by adding four more stars. The white circle with its red center, not only represents the initial letter of Ohio, but is suggestive of its being the "Buckeye State."

Ohio Admitted to the Union

Ohio was admitted to the Union on March 1, 1803.

State Animal

The Ohio Legislature adopted the white-tailed deer as the state animal in May 1988. The white-tailed deer is the state's largest game animal and can be found in all of Ohio's 88 counties.

State Bird

Ohio adopted the cardinal as its official bird in 1933. A permanent resident of Ohio, the cardinal is known for its clear, strong song and brilliant red plumage.

State Insect

In June 1975, the Ohio legislature declared the common ladybug, officially named the Ladybird Beetle, as the state insect. Indigenous to Ohio, the ladybug is a favorite of children and adults because of its beauty and its helpful instinct to eat other insects that can be harmful to crops and flowers.

State Song

"Beautiful Ohio" became the state song in 1969. Mary Earl composed the music, and Ballard McDonald wrote the original lyrics. In 1989, the Ohio legislature adopted an amendment to change the words to the song. The new lyrics are the work of Youngstown attorney Wilbert McBride.

State Rock Song

"Hang on Sloopy," a favorite of The Ohio State University Marching Band, became the state rock song in 1985. Composed by Celina, Ohio-born guitarist Rick Derringer, it was first recorded by The McCoys, a rock band from Dayton, in 1965.

State Wildflower

Ohio's state wildflower, trillium grandiflorum, is commonly known as the large white trillium. The beautiful plant is found in all 88 counties in Ohio and was adopted as Ohio's state wildflower in 1987.

State Gemstone

Flint, the state gemstone since 1965, is a smooth hard rock of sedimentary origin. Native Americans used flint to make knives, spear points and arrowheads. Later, Ohio settlers used it for flintlock guns and millstones.

State Fossil

Adopted in 1985, Ohio's state fossil is the isotelus, commonly known as the trilobite. This extinct sea creature existed in Ohio 440 million years ago when salt water covered the state. It was about 14 inches long and resembled the modern horseshoe crab. The largest trilobite fossil was discovered in the Dayton area in 1919.

State Flower

The red carnation was adopted as Ohio's state flower in 1904 in memory of President William McKinley, who always wore a red carnation in his lapel.

State Tree

The buckeye tree was adopted in 1853 as the state tree. Native to Ohio, it gives the state its nickname, "the Buckeye State." Native Americans compared its likeness with the eye of a buck deer.

State Beverage

Tomato juice was adopted as the state beverage in 1965. Ohio leads the country in the production of tomato juice and is second only to California in tomato growing.

State Reptile

In 1995, the General Assembly named the black racer snake as Ohio's official reptile. The black racer snake was adopted because it is native to all 88 Ohio counties and is called the "farmer's friend," because it eats disease-carrying rodents.
